About Department of Artificial Intelligence and Machine Learning (AIML)

The Department of Artificial Intelligence and Machine Learning (AI & ML) at Galgotias College of Engineering and Technology (GCET) is committed to providing a world-class teaching and learning environment for technical education and research in modern AI and ML technologies. The department offers a four-year undergraduate B.Tech program in Artificial Intelligence and Machine Learning, which is designed to lay a strong foundation using core principles and cutting-edge technologies in AI, ML, and related fields.

About FDP

This FDP will empower faculties, researchers, and professionals to build next-generation intelligent systems capable of complex visual understanding and autonomous decision-making. The FDP will also highlight how integration of DL and CV into various domains can boost innovation and solve real-world problems with greater efficiency and intelligence.

Program Objective

- To introduce concepts of Deep Learning & Computer Vision
- To promote DNN, CNN, RNN, Autoencoder, LSTM, GRU, GAN and their architecture, and applications
- To encourage advanced Deep Learning Techniques such as AlexNet, VGGNet, ResNet, and Inception with their application in CV
- To encourage applications of Computer Vision in Real-World Domain
- Emerging Trends in Computer Vision

Who Can Attend?

The FDP is open to the Faculties of Engineering Colleges, MCA colleges and other allied disciplines and also for Research Scholars. Industry personnel working in the concerned/allied discipline are also welcome.
